- The first week of November, I was working on generating personas to better understand user's requirements. Other than that, I have generated user requirements from the cumulative 4 personas and created a solid feature list for the project.
- The 2nd week of November was dedicated to the prototyping generation. First few days, I watched some YouTube videos and gain some valuable insights of effective using of ng Figma for prototyping. Following that, I started to generate frames like a landing page, login and sign up using best practices documentation on the internet. So far, I feel confident on using Figma and creating an engaging UI for the users.

- I asked ChatGPT to get ideas on how to use Figma effectively. I added value to that by going on YouTube video platform and getting hands-on practice on Figma.
